

Supporting Businesses to be Forest Responsible and Address Environmental Risks

Businesses face a growing challenge to verify product legality and sustainability. Compliance requirements and market preferences have changed; businesses must now compete in a market that prefers responsibly harvested wood and paper products. Businesses must respond to these challenges by being Forest Responsible, ensuring that their products are not linked in any way to deforestation, illegal practices or environmental destruction.

TFT has a ten-year track record of assisting businesses to become Forest Responsible and can help your business too. Our support enables clients to meet legal and market demands, reduce business costs, increase revenue streams, enhance corporate profiles, and mitigate environmental risk by ensuring product supply chains don't destroy forests. Good wood is good business; being Forest Responsible conserves the forests that underpin tomorrow's supply chains.

Two Paths to Forest Responsibility

TFT provides services under two distinct work streams:

Good Wood Systems help you analyze and mitigate your environmental risk and move you forward to meet demands for legal compliance (Lacey and FLEGT) and certification. Specific services include:

- Supply chain analysis, management and training
- Product and shipment tracking to demonstrate compliance with policies and laws
- Chain of Custody training and advice
- Understanding and implementing FSC Controlled Wood policies

Sustainable Forest Management moves the forests that anchor your supply chain toward FSC certification. Specific services include:

- Preparation and training for Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) Forest Management assessments
- Product sourcing and developing market connections

TFT now has more staff assisting clients to become Forest Responsible than any other such organization in the world. With offices in Europe, the U.S., Southeast Asia, China, Africa and South America, our expert staff's local knowledge links with a deep understanding of forest management and global supply chains that supports Forest Responsible companies to manage issues around forest products.

Two Ways to Engage

You can engage with TFT as a Business Client or as a TFT Member.

Business Client we assist you with specific projects on a fee for service basis.

TFT Member we assist you through a structured program that mitigates your environmental risk, delivers a path to certification and allows you, through the use of the TFT logo and other means, to communicate with external stakeholders around what you are doing to be Forest Responsible.

Who We Are and What We Do

TFT is a UK registered non-profit organization founded in 1999 with a core mission to conserve forests through Forest Responsible business practices and market-based mechanisms.

Since our inception we've developed and refined a unique expertise in managing product supply chain risk and delivering sustainable forest management in high risk and complex conditions.
